

Authors (Year) Text Title

Full image of the text's cover

Abstract

Writing an abstract is not necessary. Abstracts are only copied if they are already included in the text. Science papers always include an abstract at the beginning which can be copied. Books are usually published along with a brief synopsis which can be copied. The abstract is copied in the published language. Abstracts are accepted in any language, though English and Spanish are preferred.

It is important to note the only texts being accepted are those published under a free or open license allowing their free copying and distribution. Any texts in the "Library" meet this requirement.

Key words

Key words associated to the text are copied here. In science papers, key words are always included after the abstract, but for other types of text it is possible for this field to remain blank. If no key words have been published along with the text they may be added, as long as the text's content is well known.

File

THE TEXT FILE WILL BE ADDED IN THIS SPACE AFTER UPLOADING IT TO THE WIKI.

Source

If the text has been extracted from a particular source such as an article, book, repository, database, interview, etc., please make sure to include the source in this section.

Links

URL: http://www.text_url_is_copied_here

Wayback Machine: <http://archive.org/web/>

[[Category: Library]] - This first category is the most important. Without it the text will not be indexed.

[[Category: Language(s)]] - The language(s) in which the text has been published is recorded here.

[[Category: Starting country(ies)]] - Publishing countries are added here.

[[Category: Starting year]] - Publishing year is added here.

[[Category: Authors]] - All of the text's participating authors are recorded here by First Name, Last Name.

[[Category: Publishers]] - All of the publishers or editors are recorded here.